another Bank defaulter, the particulars of whose case will be found in another column. We should not say "surprised," for after the experience of the past few years, Wall-street is not easily surprised by instances of financial villainy. There does appear to be some contagion in the atmosphere of a Bank calculated to obscure the judgement and destroy the virtuous principles of those who are connected with them. Name after name appears on the list of delinquents, and punishment so unsupposed to the sum of Three Hundred and Forty-five Thousand Dollars, the passenger of the New Joynes and Dollars.
